

Australian Psychological Society (APS) Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) Practitioners List (as at 21 June 2017)

Psychologists whose names appear on the ASD Practitioners List have provided details and supporting documentation which identifies them as having some training and experience in the assessment and treatment of ASD. This List is open to all APS members who have completed APS-recognised education and/or training and/or experience that demonstrates a degree of knowledge, skills and practice in the area of ASD. Non-members of the APS who wish to appear on the list pay a fee and must demonstrate the completion of the same criteria for listing as APS members.

The ASD List is available as an access service to assist health practitioners and the general public locate a selection of practitioners that may suit their needs in this area. The ASD List;

- is arranged by state and territory
- has the capacity to search by keyword
- has multiple entries for psychologists that practice in more than one location.

Many of the psychologists listed on the APS ASD List also have entries on the APS Find a Psychologist Service, which is the resource listing psychologists in private practice. These links are provided for your convenience to access further information provided by the psychologists.

<http://www.psychology.org.au/FindAPsychologist/>

As the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) is introduced across Australia, service users and referring professionals will be able to check on the NDIS Register whether a professional is a NDIS Registered Service Provider when deciding whether to use their services:

<http://www.ndis.gov.au/find-registered-service-providers>

Service providers in areas that have not yet transitioned to the NDIS can be located at:

<https://www.dss.gov.au/our-responsibilities/disability-and-carers/program-services/for-people-with-disability/helping-children-with-autism/providers>

Visitors to the APS ASD List should also note that the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA) is the statutory regulator for psychologists in Australia. The APS recommends that service users check the AHPRA Register that a professional is registered before deciding to use their services:

<http://www.ahpra.gov.au/Registration/Registers-of-Practitioners.aspx>

Where a psychologist practises in more than one location within a particular suburb/town and there are different contact phone numbers for each of the practices, an entry for each practice is listed.
